Marriage Banns

St. Francis Xavier Church

Laura Kitchie and Nico Giokaris-Bann I

Dear Friends,

“O Come O Come Emmanuel!” It seems like just yesterday that we were planning for Christmas 2019. We come to Church this weekend, perhaps still reeling from our new Coronavirus-forced reduced celebrations Thursday, or tired from our “Black Friday” online shopping excursions. And we are told in no uncertain terms that the time is right to focus our attention on the Lord. Not turkey, not bargains, but Jesus.

“Be vigilant.” Those two words have become part of our everyday language as we continue to combat the spread of the coronavirus. Following those words, we are told to, “Wash your hands. Keep your distance. Wear your mask. Avoid gathering with people outside your home. If you’re feeling unwell or have been exposed to someone with the virus, please stay home.” Those bits of advice, when heeded, can help keep our community safe, healthy and able to come regularly for Mass and other liturgical gatherings.

While heeding those guidelines and words of advice, in this year like no other, we flip the calendar to a new liturgical year and new season to start the year off. We begin today the season of Advent. As we do so, the Church invites us to a different type of vigilance. Advent, a time of waiting and preparation, encourages vigilance. We need to heed warnings and prepare our hearts for the coming of Christ.

Health officials have supplemented their command to be vigilant against the virus. Spiritual guides would also have us do some particular things, not in fear of something like the virus, but in joyful preparation for the coming of Christ. After the command to be spiritually vigilant, the Scriptures, the Saints and spiritual guides might add, “Hope in the revelation of our Lord. See the face of Jesus in the eyes of the poor. Accomplish righteous deeds. Be firm in faith. Be irrefragable when Christ comes.”

When we hope in the revelation of the Lord, we do not allow the darkness and uncertainty of the present day to overcome us. We have been promised that the day will come. We must realize that no darkness, no trial, no tribulation will take away that hope. On Christmas we celebrate the first coming of Christ, as a little child. During Advent we prepare for the second coming of Christ, in all his glory. I encourage you to allow this period to be a period of joyful hope in the midst of uncertainty.

As we prepare for the second coming of Christ, we prepare as one. We remember that we walk this earthly journey together – especially with those who are poor. The Lord invites us in this special season to see his face in the eyes of the poor. I often think of Cardinal George’s famous line, “We all go to heaven on the backs of the poor. Jesus tells us they’re going to get there first.” At Saints JFX, we have many opportunities to work with and for those who are poor.

As we prepare, we do our best to accomplish righteous deeds. That exercise of vigilance challenges us to do the right thing in relationship with God and others. Let’s choose the good, practice mercy, seek to understand, do God’s will – in little ways and big ones. When we do, we practice spiritual vigilance. Trusting in God’s providence, the God who gave us his Son, we remain firm in faith. The darkness will not overcome us, and the promised Emmanuel will come.

As we focus our attention on Jesus at the beginning of our liturgical year, Jesus tells us in today’s Gospel to be watchful and to be ready. The final sentence of the Gospel, just one word, exclaims the command, “Watch!” We must not allow ourselves to get too wrapped up in the premature celebrations, the secular ones, of the season. We need to be sure that our hearts are ready to welcome the Lord anew into our hearts, homes and lives. In order to do that, we need to watch for his coming and make the prayer of the age-old song our own, O Come, O Come Emmanuel!

To allow Emmanuel to come, we must make room for him in our hearts. This great season, coming at the darkest time of our calendar year, prepares for the coming of the light of the world. At Saints Joseph and Francis Xavier, we will do this with prayer and petition, in simple subtle ways. Mary plays a prominent role in salvation history and in Advent we honor her in many ways.

Peace,
